Isolation & Quarantine

Course Registration: MGT-433 & PER-308

MGT-433 Isolation and Quarantine for Rural Communities is a four-hour management-level, instructor-led course designed to provide small, rural, and remote communities with the knowledge, skills, and abilities to effectively plan for and respond to events that require isolation and/or quarantine of their populations in a variety of low- and high-impact situations. This course serves as a prerequisite for other Isolation and Quarantine courses: MGT-431, MGT-432, and PER-308.

Held in conjunction with:

PER-308 Rural Isolation and Quarantine Planning for Public Health and Healthcare Professionals is a four-hour, management-level, instructor-led course designed to expand on concepts introduced in MGT-433, and consists of two customized training modules specifically tailored toward course participants in the public health and medical fields. In this session, participants will become familiar with guidance that assists communities in planning for isolation and quarantine (I&Q), such as the National Response Plan and its implications in the healthcare community.

All students must first successfully complete MGT-433 in the morning session in order to attend PER-308 in the afternoon.
