Overview and Guidebook

The Center for Sharing Public Health Services has created A Roadmap to Develop Cross-Jurisdictional Sharing Initiatives to help guide jurisdictions through the process of considering or establishing cross-jurisdictional sharing (CJS) arrangements.

There are three distinct phases on the roadmap:

- Phase One: Explore
- Phase Two: Prepare and Plan
- Phase Three: Implement and Improve

Roadmap Index

Overview and Guidebook This path leads to a quick overview that can be expanded to more in-depth information about each phase, area and issue. It contains links to resources and tools along the way.

Summary Table This path leads to a printable table where all phases, areas and issues are listed. It also contains links to tools and resources for each area.

Where should I start? This path leads to a self-assessment of progress along the CJS Roadmap.

Roadmap Documents This path contains links to printable documents that explain the Roadmap and how to use it.

Questions for MACs

1. What are the gaps in ability to meet the standards that we could address jointly?
2. What are the guiding principles we'd use to conduct the joint work?
3. Do all the partners agree to these principles?
4. What are the motivations of each county for participating in joint work?
5. Is there a political willingness to conduct the work jointly?
6. What are the possible strengths-weaknesses-opportunities-threats (SWOT) to consider as we develop our joint work plan?
7. How will we communicate with each other?
8. Who has the authority to make decisions?
9. How will we know if our joint work is successful?
