Stepping On Leader Training in Cedar Rapids, IA    February 22-24, 2017
Hometown Inn and Suites
According to the Iowa Department of Public Health, unintentional falls are the leading cause of injury-related emergency room visits, hospitalizations and deaths for Iowans aged 65 or older, with those over age 85 being seven times more likely than those ages 65-84 to die from a fall.

With Iowa’s aging population, the number of unintentional falls continues to increase each year, resulting in more than 430 reported fall-related deaths in 2012 and adding up to more than $135 million each year in hospital costs.

Stepping On is an evidence-based fall prevention program that empowers older adults to carry out health behaviors that reduce the risks of falls. It is a community-based workshop offered once a week for seven weeks using adult education and self-efficacy principles. Subjects covered include: improving balance and strength, home and environmental safety, vision, medication review. The workshops are highly participative; mutual support and success build the participants’ confidence in their ability to manage their health behaviors to reduce the risk of falls and to maintain active and fulfilling lives. Workshops are led by certified leaders. The Wisconsin Institute for Healthy Aging (WIHA) brought it to the U.S. WIHA holds the exclusive North American license for the program.

The Iowa Stepping On leader training is supported by grant number 90FP0031-01-00, financed solely by Prevention and Public Health Funds, from the U.S. Administration for Community Living, Administration on Aging, Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, D.C. 20201. Grantees undertaking projects under government sponsorship are encouraged to express freely their findings and conclusions. Points of view or opinions do not, therefore, necessarily represent official Administration for Community Living policy.

The Research

Stepping On is a community-based, small-group program designed to reduce falls and build confidence in older adults. Developed in Australia and tested in a randomized controlled trial, the Stepping On program demonstrated a 31% reduction in falls. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) developed an American version of Stepping On that has been tested in the United States and shown to achieve results similar to the original.

Program Overview

Stepping On empowers older adults who have fallen or who have a fear of falling to recognize and carry out health behaviors that reduce their risk of falls. The program is designed to assist older adults to take control of their falls risk, explore different coping behaviors and encourage follow-through of safety strategies in everyday life. The program includes both a group workshop setting and individualized follow-up. Workshops are facilitated by two individuals, either two trained Leaders, or after the Leaders first workshop, one Leader and one Peer Leader. A Leader is a current or retired healthcare professional, social worker, aging network professional, health educator or fitness expert who has successfully completed the Stepping On Leader Training. The Peer Leader is an older adult who has successfully completed a Stepping On workshop. Because a first workshop must be led by two trained Leaders, individuals selected for this Leader Training must have identified the individual to serve as their co-Leader for the first workshop in their community.

The program is offered in a two-hour session once a week for seven weeks, followed by a home visit or phone call to each participant after the seven sessions, and a booster session three months later. Stepping On leaders must invite volunteer Guest Experts in content areas of exercise, vision, medications, and community safety to lead segments for specific sessions as identified in the Leader Manual and Leader Training. Classes are highly participative: mutual support and success build the participants’ confidence in their abilities to reduce their risks of falls and maintain active and fulfilling lives.

Qualifications to Become a Stepping On Leader

Leaders must be a health care professional, health educator, aging network professional or fitness instructor. They must have experience leading groups of older adults, be able to demonstrate the strength and balance exercises and modify and advance, them. Leaders must be comfortable tightly following the manual and exhibit enthusiasm for and commitment to falls prevention and the program. If employed, Leaders must have secured permission and commitment from their employer to both attend the Leader Training and to have time to plan and conduct the workshop regularly.
