

WISEWOMAN Providers,

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) WISEWOMAN Program and the American College of Preventive Medicine (ACPM), would like to inform you of a unique collaboration to offer free access to provider continuing medical education in lifestyle medicine. This free access to the American College of Preventive Medicine's Lifestyle Medicine (30-hour/CME credit) on-line curriculum will give WISEWOMAN physicians/clinicians the core competencies to use in practice.

The information on ACPM's website (www.acpm.org/WISEWOMANLM) provides a detailed description of the lifestyle medicine curriculum, its development, and instructions to access ACPM's e-learning portal. After your individual user profile is created, you will be given access to the 30-hour (CME) curriculum. Upon successful completion of the entire curriculum, a certificate of continuing medical education credit in Lifestyle Medicine can be printed for your records.

The following attachments to this email are also available on the website:

1. ACPM WISEWOMAN Provider Education (Factsheet)
2. ACPM Lifestyle Medicine E-Learning Portal Access Instructions

ACPM is here to assist you. If you experience any technical issues concerning accessing the e-learning portal or questions concerning continuing medical education credits, please feel free to contact us at: WWLMCinfo@acpm.org.

This educational opportunity is designed to benefit your practice and improve health outcomes among your WISEWOMAN patients.
